Sitting on a Speaker

Sure, you can sit on a speaker, but that doesn't make it a chair. It has more to offer. Likewise, people will find various and creative ways to make use of your skills to fit their needs, without first thinking about your full purpose or potential.

1 Name all the functions and roles that you play because other people find them useful.

2 Circle those that you enjoy or that match your own goals.

3 Try to name your highest function(s) — activities that engage your entire self, and occupy wholly your head and heart.
